

Frequently Asked Questions

One-on-one Tuition

Question: Why is the Bronze Package (20-minute consultation) a separate package (not included in other packages)?

Answer:

* The 20-minute consultation is a critical step to complete before hourly lessons commence.

This session allows the tutor to discuss the results of the pre-service teacher's sample practice exam and thus determine the learning needs apparent and plan appropriate learning goals. After the 20-minute consultation and before hourly sessions commence, the tutor spends time carefully designing a personalised study plan and a series of lessons tailored specifically for the pre-service teacher.

* The 20-minute consultation allows the pre-service teacher time with their prospective tutor and confirming tutor versus student suitability, before financially proceeding with and committing to hourly sessions.

* To see if one-on-one tuition support is a suitable support option for the pre-service teacher overall.

* To confirm which one-on-one tuition support package is most suitable to purchase from the Silver, Gold and Platinum Packages. The tutor will advise. Please note that each package ranges from low, moderate and high-level support and our Gold and Platinum Packages include additional resources such as practice exams and online resources.

* To see if there is an alternative support option more suitable to pursue, such as the Rose Gold Package (20-minute consultation, followed by a personalised study plan and resources), group tuition or study materials only.

* The 20-minute consultation is at a cheaper hourly rate compared to the hourly rate of our Silver, Gold and Platinum Packages. We would rather that the student spends less money to begin with and be satisfied with our services before purchasing hourly sessions at a higher hourly rate.

Question: Should I have one-on-one or group tuition?

Answer: It's completely up to you.

Group tuition is a terrific option, if you would like to learn in a supportive, interactive group environment, with a specialist tutor, in an intensive, four-week course, with heaps of study materials provided and if you have limited time to prepare. Group tuition is cheaper, per hour, than one-on-one tuition.

One-on-one tuition provides hourly sessions with a specialist LANTITE tutor. Lessons are personalised and tailored to suit your learning needs and goals. An important 20-minute consultation must be attended prior to commencing hourly sessions.

One-on-one tuition is more expensive, per hour, than group tuition. Both group and one-on-one tuition programs are of high quality, comprehensive and are designed to help you achieve LANTITE Success.

Some of our students have opted to complete our group tuition course first, followed by a few one-on-one tuition sessions, so that they could continue to build upon topics and skills taught in the group tuition course, as one-on-one tuition sessions focus specifically on the student's unique learning needs and goals.

Question: What can I expect if I receive one-on-one tuition support?

Answer: Lessons are carefully designed, tailored to suit your personal learning needs and goals. Effective teaching strategies are used that target strengths and areas of weakness, equipping students with a 'toolkit' to tackle questions similar to and expected in the LANTITE Tests. Activities include the workshop of LANTITE-standard resources (created by us or recommended by us), comprehensively covering topics and skills required to pass LANTITE. Homework is set each week so that the student can practise the topics and skills learnt in their hourly sessions. Lessons are recorded upon request, which means that the student can watch the session that attended live.

Question: Will you and your tutors make sure I pass the exam if you coach and tutor me?

Answer: No, as we cannot sit the exam for you, but with our time, care, energy and expertise, we will do our best to help you do well, in the exam and to equip you with important Literacy and Numeracy skills for your teaching career and for life. Feel free to check out our Testimonials page on our website, reviews on our Facebook page or Google Business page and read about the many students who have successfully passed the LANTITE Tests with our expert support, through the independent use of our study materials or tuition support or both. Pre-service teachers who have passed with our support have taken their time to prepare, used our LANTITE study materials, used our feedback in order to improve, taken expert advice as to when to sit their tests and sat their tests when they felt ready.

Question: I've booked to sit my LANTITE Tests in an upcoming round, but I don't think I'm ready. What should I do? As I'm due to graduate/have a job waiting for me/want to move forward in my degree.

Answer: It's important that you sit your LANTITE Exam/s when you are ready and give yourself the best chance of passing. It's best to withdraw from this exam round and sit in another round. You won't receive a refund for your exam registration and it will delay you in moving forward with your degree; however, it's important not to waste an attempt. Get the support you need from us through one-on-one tuition. We can help you, whether you would like to purchase and attend more lessons, or, have a break then continue studying using the study plan we have designed and provided and then seek further support at a later time.

Question: I need help with exam stress/confidence/mentally and emotionally preparing for the exam. Can you help me with this?

Answer: Absolutely. Being professional teachers in the profession for many years, we can definitely support and encourage you in these areas. We incorporate into our tuition programs important ways to manage performance anxiety, stress, your time and ensuring you are well supported not just academically, but also mentally and emotionally. We ensure our students are confident and competent when sitting their exam.

Elizabeth (Director) has written a webinar about how to prepare holistically for the exam. Check out Webinar #8 (information on this page). It's free for group and one-on-one tuition students.

Question: How many one-on-one tuition sessions should I have before my exam?

Answer: We recommend coaching and tutoring the earlier the better, for the best preparation, learning outcomes and to maximise your chances of passing the exam. We suggest at least a five weekly lessons before sitting your exam. Please allow your tutor to suggest you purchase and book in more lessons if you need it.

Question: I have been unsuccessful with the LANTITE Literacy Exam more than three times. I am concerned about whether or not I can continue on with my course or graduate. What should I do?

Answer: We can write a letter to your university for you (if you are up to your final attempt), saying that you are our one-on-one students and explaining that, with our support and guidance, you are showing excellent progress and readiness for the exam and that you should be allowed another opportunity to sit the exam. Terms and Conditions apply. Please refer to our Terms and Conditions page for more information.

Question: How many students have you and your tutoring team tutored?

Answer: We support hundreds of students each year, through one-on-one and group tuition, webinars, Q&A sessions, practice exams and general enquiries. It's been so rewarding helping so many of you achieve LANTITE Success and become the teachers you've worked so hard to become!

Question: How will I know if and when I'm ready to complete the exam?

Answer: We will help, guide and support you as your tutors and coaches, as to the best time for you to complete the exam.

Question: Should I complete one LANTITE exam at a time, or complete both (Literacy and Numeracy), in the same exam window?

Answer: We highly recommend that you sit one exam at a time. Literacy and Numeracy are very different subjects. Give yourself the time and space to focus on one subject at a time. You may like to complete the subject that you feel the most confident with, then spend the most time on the subject that you need to spend more time studying and receiving support in. It's up to you.

Question: I have more questions. What should I do?

Answer: Feel free to fill in the form on our Contact page or give us a call. We are more than happy to help!
